Address of the Whig State Central Com-mittee.

The Whigs of Pennsylvania, profoundly sensi-ble of the importance of the great political strug-gle they are about to enter, beg leave respect-fully to submit, through their State central committee, to their fellow-Whigs of the Union, a statement of their position, and their reasons fo maintaining it.

As Pennsylvania has never yet cast her electoral vote in vain, and as she is likely to become, as heretofore, the arbiter of the contest, and, of consequence, the battle-ground, it is proper for those who have the best means to know the ground and its circumstances to impart their knowledge candidly and honestly to their brethren of the same faith and party.

The history of the past fully establishes the falsity of the proposition that republics are un-grateful. The memories of Washington, Jackson, Harrison, and Taylor teach us that the American republic has never yet been ungrateful to those who have led her armies, defended her rights, and adorned her name with an imperishable renown. This is in accordance with the nature of in accordance with a noble and generous impulse. And as long as human hearts are constituted as now, the man who has denied himself the comforts of home—foregone the pleasures of wealth—invested the strength of his body and the powers of his mind-risked health and life in the defence of his country, will always receive, at the hands of his fellow-citizens, the highest earthly honors and rewards, when the opportunity offers to confer them.

In fidelity to the constitution, and in gratitude to its defenders, Pennsylvania acknowledges no superior. Within the broad limits of this great democratic empire there is to be found no commonwealth more loyal and patriotic. And while it is very certain that no man who is not true to the constitution in all its parts and the Union in its integrity can stand even the shadow of a chance to obtain her electoral vote, it is equally certain that no man, Whig or Democrat, has so much the confidence and affection of her people as WINFIELD SCOTT. Our adversaries know this, ost earnestly and bitterly deprecate his nomination. But we are aware that, if they had the good fortune to possess such a can-didate, there would be no divided counsels among them in regard to his nomination. If General Scott belonged to the ranks of the enemy, instead of being an honest, brave, and reliable Whig, the first Baltimore Convention would nominate him

Shall we be less wise than our adversaries Shall we sacrifice the victory that stretches out before us? Shall we suffer the Whig banner to trail again in defeat, and the Capitol of the nation to be once more entirely given up to those whose principles are, in our opinion, opposed to its prosperity and its greatness? The decision with the Whig National Convention.

And while we pledge ourselves to an honest, zealous, and enthusiastic support of the nominee of that Convention, whoever he may be-for we are accustomed to look above the standard-bearer to the standard-we most kindly and earnestly entreat our fellow-Whigs to remember that in Pennsylvania—the battle-ground—the name of Scott is as invincible as on the battle-fields of Mexico. But though he is the choice of her 200,000 Whigs, and of thousands of her Democrats, we will leave unmade no effort, however fruitless, and unexerted no influence, however barren of victory, in behalf of either of his great competi-Our only inquiries shall be-Is he a Whig Is he true to the constitution?

Of Millard Fillmore, the patriotic and distinguished gentleman who now so creditably occu-pies the loftiest official position on the earth, as higs we are proud. Of Daniel Webster, whose fame is not even limited by the bounds of civilization-who, as orator and statesman, stands almost without a rival in the world—peerless and unapproachable in the might and splendor of his genius—as Americans ll be handed down as a boast and a heritage to our children.

But even for these great and glorious Whigs we are unwilling to hazard the triumph of our great and more glorious principles. For that we conceive to be of infinitely more consequence than the political fortunes of any man, however good, able, or distinguished he may be. Small indeed becomes the destiny of the individual in comparison with the welfare of the republic.

With Winfield Scott, the Whigs of the United States can achieve a certain and easy victory. With any other candidate it might be considered doubtful, if not desperate-not because the Whig party, as a national party, is the weaker, but because, in the present nicely-balanced condition f parties, it is difficult for either to be victorious in two successive contests. We repeat, certain and easy victory. For the people believe, with a unanimity unprecedented, that he cannot be beaten. And this state of the public mind insures the result, as any one knows who is at all skilled in

And who shall say that Winfield Scott is not fit for the high station to which we would elevate Has any single important act of his life evinced a want of ability? Who shall say that the commanding genius which has raised his name to the loftiest rank among the immortal names of earth will not prove equal to any posi-tion or any crisis that may arise in the civil affairs of men? Do the humble battlements of Vera Cruz, the stormed heights of the Mexican mountains, or the American flag waving in triumph over a conquered empire, attest this want of ability? We leave history and fame to answer.

In view of the important contest we are about to enter, and for the sake of the cherished principles for which we have so long contended, side by side, under one banner, and with one battle cry, the Whigs of Pennsylvania call upon the higs of the United States (for they know neither North nor South) to unite with them in another mighty and successful effort to overthrow again and forever the pernicious principles of their common adversary.

By resolution of the State central committee. DAVID TAGGART, Chairman. CHARLES THOMSON JONES, Secretary.

Testimony from Home!

Baltimore, Sept. 11, 1851.

Mesers. Mortimer & Mowleray: I feel it a duty to make known the benefits I have derived from Dr. Hampton's Tincture. For a length of time I have been subject to great prostration of muscular power, and great debility of the nervous system, accompanied with palpitation and fluttering of the heart. I had such sudden attacks that on one occasion I could scarcely get home. I making mention of my case to a friend, he referred me to Joseph K. Stapleton, esq., an old and highly respectable citizen of Baltimore, who had used the Tincture under similar circumstances. I called on Mr. Stapleton, and, after an interview of some minutes, I was fully satisfied of the medical virtues of the Tincture, from the evidence before me, of his own person, who, for some time previous, indicated a failing state of health, but now a heavy, hale appearance, with the activity of youth. I immediately commenced using the Tincture, and, before I took the contents of one bottle, my strength was renewed, and I can walk as brisk and am as active as I was twenty years ago. This Tincture is the grand restorative of the digestive organs, which when destroyed, the whole system is in a state of suffering.

I do assert it is no humbug, but is, in reality, what it is represented to be by Dr. Hampton, the inventor.

KRAUSER'S PATENT CLOVER-SEED HAR-

IS BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR THE FIRST TIME IS BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR THE FIRST TIME.

The stillity is beyond comparison with any other farming implement now in use. It takes the seed from the field leaving the straw or grass all standing. It weighs two hundred and fifty pounds, is drawn by one horse, and gather from ten to twelve acres per day. The fingers, or teeth catch all the heads, the revolving knives cut them off and throw them back into the box, which will cross a twenty acre field without emptying. The heads are then loaded into a wagon and taken directly to the mill for cleaning thus diminishing the labor three-fourths, and saving all the seed. This machine comes so low that every farmer with have it, and pays the manufacturer 300 per cent.

E. WHEELER, Agent for Washington.

CROSS KEYS, WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP, CAMPEN CO., We, the undersigned, do certify that we have seen Mr. Krauser's Patent Clover Harvester in operation, and it has given perfect satisfaction. It has gathered many of the farmers' clover in this neighborhood—it is all that Mr. Krauser and his bills represent it to be. The farmers have given one-half for gathering and threshing.

This is to certify that Mr. G. J. Naylor has gathered clover off of a sixteen-acre field of mine, which has been pastured two months with ten head of cattle, and it produced six bushels and a half and one peck of seed. I gave him two thirds for gathering and cleaning. I think his machine is first-rate, and answers all the purpose that is intended.

NEHEMIAH NICHOLSON. Long-A-Coming, October 7, 1851 The following points out the profitable nature

KRAUSER'S PATENT CLOVER-SEED HARVESTER. We have conversed with a number of Farmers, and they are of opinion that there are at least 2,000 acres in each township in Camden or Gloucester county, New Jersey. Admitting there are but 1,000, it is said that each acre will yield from 1½ to 3 bushels. Reducing it to a certainty of yielding but 1 bushel per acre, what will it cost to gather and thresh 1,000 acres.

Perhaps no invention offers greater inducements for a profitable investment than the Harvester. For an enterprising young man, of good business habits, a large sum of money could without doubt be realized from the sale of fights in the different States of the Union not yet disposed of. By calling at this office, it can be demonstrated satisfactorily that men of moderate capital could not choose a better or more money-paying business.

of the Union! At a meeting at Castle Garden, New York, February 25, 1850, to consult upon measures for the preservation of the Union, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the people of New York, without distinction of sect or party, are ardently devoted to the union of these States, as, next to our liberties, the most precious of their political in-stitutions: and, having never yet begun to calcu-late the value of this Union, can contemplate no contingency in which its dissolution would be otherwise than a gigantic crime against the peace, prosperity, and freedom of our country and of

Resolved, That in the resolutions lately submitted to the Senate of the United States by Mr. Clay, looking to a complete and final settlement of all questions relating to slavery, on which the feelings of the Northern and Southern sections of our country have been excited against each other, we joyfully recognise the basis of an harmonious and brotherly adjustment of a most distracting and perilous controversy; and entreat our fellowcitizens of all parties and sections to study those resolutions carefully, and in a spirit of devotion to the union and perpetuity of this noble confederacy.

Resolved, That, in view of the above considerations, we accept, as the basis of a compromise, the preamble and resolutions as introduced by Clay into the Senate of the United States, on the 19th of January, 1850.

General Scott, being present at this meeting, was called on, and, rising amid long-continued cheers, addressed the meeting as follows:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: Your kind greeting fills me with the deepest emotions. I came here not expecting to take more than a stand in some corner of the great hall, to witness the proceedings. Some kind friend discovered me below, or I should not have stood in this conspicuous place. I did not expect to address one word to this meeting. I see before me much of the intelligence, respectability, and sterling worth of this great city, assembled here for the purpose of supporting our great Union, of which I am an humble friend and servant. I do not call myself a citizen of the North, of the South, of the East, or of the West; but I have served the Union for forty-odd years, and feel myself a citi-zen of EVERY PART OF IT; and whatever life and strength I may have SHALL BE DEVOTED TO ITS PRESERVATION. Feeling that is was in jeopardy, and that this meeting had assembled to PROMOTE HARMONY AND PRESERVE THE UNION, I came here, and return you many thanks for the kindness with which you have welcomed me.

I am not an Abolitionist, nor an advocate of slavery. I come not here as a Democrat or a Whig. I have attended no party meeting in forty-two years. But when the cry is that THE UNION is in danger, and a rally is made to support it, I would have been a coward and a recrean I had not also rallied! Of whatever value may be the remainder of my life, (and none sets more value on it than I

I hope I may not live to see its dissolution; but if unable to avert its fate, I would be buried beneath its ruins! I am charmed with the good feeling and universal patriotism which this meeting has exhibited and God grant that you may devise some plan to save that Union to which we all, in heart for the Union and Compromise.

Winfield Scott a Pacificator. The only argument used against the nomination of Winfield Scott for the Presidency is, that he is a military man, and as such will be likely to embroil the country in foreign war, and to encourage the spirit of aggrandizement and foreign conquest. Never was an idea more absurd more in contradiction of the records of American tration of a civilian. The war which threatened the United States on account of the Maine boundary question was prevented by the personal exertions of Winfield Scott; as was the threatened collision between the United States and Great Britain in the time of the Canadian emeute. In Mexico, too, Scott acted as a pacificator; and his enemies blamed him because, before the fight was all his own, he listened to overtures of peace.
